

3 TYPES OF SUBMISSION

Journal of Business Venturing Insights (JBV Insights) aims to enhance the conversation among scholars and practitioners by offering a forum for rapid dissemination of novel and relevant research related to entrepreneurial phenomena. We welcome three types of submissions.

REGULAR SUBMISSION

Empirical submissions could include unusual findings, atheoretical descriptions, non-findings or replication of established relationships, or single experiments.

Theoretical submissions could include thought-provoking examples or juxtapositions. Other regular submissions include simulations and scale and other methodological developments.

RAPID RESPONSE

Rapid responses are scholarly contributions that are deployed quickly to inform those facing pressing issues that affect, can be affected by or otherwise relate to entrepreneurial phenomena. Rapid response papers have a unique purpose and structure.

For more information about the Rapid Response section, please take a look at the call for papers and the papers published under the ER3 initiative.

MEANINGFUL HETERODOXIES

This section aims to enhance scholarly conversations surrounding practices and processes in entrepreneurship that characteristically cut against the grain of conventional wisdom or majority opinion. This section offers a forum for the publication of cutting-edge scholarship related to nonconformist and dissenting experiences, circumstances, beliefs, taboos, cultures, and subcultures that entrepreneurs are immersed within that influence entrepreneurship.

Note: For more information about the Meaningful Heterodoxies section, please take a look at the call for papers and the Editorial: "Meaningful Heterodoxies: Advancing Entrepreneurship Research Through Engagement with Unorthodox Customs, Beliefs, Cultural Dynamics, and Phenomena".

Section editors: Robert Pidduck and Reg Tucker.

ABOUT JBVI

The research featured in JBV Insights will highlight important ideas that cannot yet meet the threshold for completeness, robustness or theoretical explication normally required in his sister journal JBV, but will otherwise stimulate further research.

JBV Insights is open to different disciplines and perspectives, thus welcomes papers that bring into entrepreneurship research ideas from within and beyond management scholarship, including the broader social and natural sciences. It is also open to innovative methods and forms of theorizing.

JBV Insights is supercharged in terms of speed and accessibility and aims to have manuscripts with the journal for no longer than three months (from submission to online publication [or rejection]). Manuscripts will be concise and widely available online via ScienceDirect.
